Benchmarking: Many asset-management funds benchmark their performance against the index, so it's a yardstick for performance assessment.

Recent Trends: A Step-by-Step Analysis

To understand the current trajectory, let's dissect the last 12 months in a structured way.

Sector Rotation: Tech and industrials pulled ahead, delivering +12% and +9% respectively, while utilities lagged at -2%. This shift aligns with a cycle where growth-oriented companies benefit from easing inflation and lower rates, whereas defensive sectors feel pressure from rising interest rates.

Valuation Levels: Price-to-earnings ratios have crept back into the 20-mid range from a historic low of 16, suggesting a partial re-valuation of growth stocks.

Macro-Catalysts: The Federal Reserve's policy stance—maintaining a 5% target range—has kept discount rates elevated. Corporate
